CONDITIONS OF SALE

1. All bids to be PER LOT as numbered in the Catalogue.
2. The highest bidder to be the buyer; in all cases of disputed bids the lot shall be resold, but the Auctioneer will use his judgment as to the good faith of all claims and his decision shall be final. He also reserves the right to reject any fractional or nominal bid which, in his judgment, may delay or injuriously affect the sale.
3. Buyers to give their names and addresses and to make such cash payments on account as may be required, in default of which, the lots purchased to be immediately resold.
4. The lots to be taken away at the buyer's expense and risk within twenty-four hours from the conclusion of the sale, and the remainder of the purchase money to be absolutely paid on or before delivery, in default of which, the Metropolitan Art Association will not be responsible if the lot or lots be lost, stolen, damaged or destroyed, but they will be left at the sole risk of the purchaser, and subject to storage charges.
5. To prevent inaccuracy in delivery and inconvenience in the settlement of purchases, no lot will be delivered during the sale.
6. All lots will be exposed for public exhibition in The Anderson Galleries before the date of sale, for examination by intending purchasers, and the Metropolitan Art Association will not be responsible for the correctness of the description, authenticity, genuineness, or for any defect or fault in or concerning any lot, and makes no warranty whatever, but will sell each lot exactly as it is, WITHOUT RECOURSE. But upon receiving before the date of sale, expert opinion in writing that any lot is not as represented, the Metropolitan Art Association will use every effort to furnish proof to the contrary, and in default of such proof the lot will be sold subject to the declaration of the aforesaid expert, he being liable to the owner or owners thereof, for damage or injury occasioned by such declaration.
7. TERMS CASH. Upon failure to comply with the above conditions any sum deposited as part payment shall be forfeited, and all such lots as remain uncleared after twenty-four hours from the conclusion of the sale, will be resold by either private or public sale at such time as the Metropolitan Art Association shall determine, without further notice, and if any deficiency arises from such resale, it shall be made good by the defaulter at this sale together with all the expenses incurred thereby. This condition shall be without prejudice to the right of the Metropolitan Art Association to enforce the contract with the buyer, without such resale.

The Metropolitan Art Association will afford every facility for the employment of carriers and packers by the purchasers, but will not be responsible for any damage arising from the acts of such carriers and packers.

Priced Copy of this Catalogue, $2.00.

595 IVORY MINIATURE, BY UNKNOWN ARTIST.

Portrait of Mirabeau, the President of the National Assembly and leader of the French Revolution, appears in a white wig; over his black coat appear the striped lapels of his waistcoat, separated by lace frills falling from his stock.

205-
596 IVORY MINIATURE PORTRAIT, BY ISAAC OLIVER.

Portrait of Arabella Stuart, with low corsage, a chain about her neck, her hair falling about her shoulders, her hand pressed to her bosom. She was the cousin of James I of England, who, because she secretly contracted a marriage against his wishes, had her imprisoned in the Tower, where she was treated so harshly that she became insane.

Signed in monogram. Set as a locket in blue enamel.

597 IVORY MINIATURE PORTRAIT OF MISS MILLER, BY HORACE HONE.

A Young Woman in white Empire dress, with a brooch set in the front of her corsage, the face marked by the vivid coloring which characterizes all of the work of this artist.

Signed with the conjoined initials, and dated 1806. The back encloses a lock of hair bound with a crescent of pearls and intertwined with gold thread. Exhibited at the Royal Academy, London, 1806.

PIERRE MIGNARD

French Painter, 1610-1695

THE DUCHESSE DE BOURGOGNE.

The subject is seen at half length, wearing a court robe open at the neck with a frill of lace about the corsage; a blue mantle, figured with the fleur-de-lys and bordered with ermine, falls from her shoulders, and a jeweled chain crosses the front of her dress from her shoulder to her waist, with a shorter one encircling her arm. A mass of curls cluster about her head, and one falls to her neck.

The subject, whose full name was Marie Anne Christian Victoire, was a Bavarian, and became the wife of the Dauphin, the Duc de Bourgogne of France. Mignard, who was one of the most popular painters of his time, was renowned for his portraits of court beauties.

LOUIS TOCQUET
French Painter, 1696-1772

PORTRAIT OF A LADY.

In a flowered gown, open in front to show a white underdress, the lady sits toying with her fan. A black lace cape is drawn about her shoulders and held by a bow of black ribbon in front, and on her head is a small bonnet whose lace edge shows above her powdered hair.

Tocquet, who was a son-in-law of Nattier and a pupil of Hyacinthe Rigaud, devoted himself wholly to portraits. After winning success in France, he was called to St. Petersburg, where he remained several years, painting members of the court.

HYACINTHE RIGAUD
French Painter, 1659-1743

PORTRAIT OF PIERRE DE BERULLE.

The subject shows a brown-eyed man in long curled wig, who gazes directly at the observer; about his shoulders is gathered a red mantle in voluminous folds, which fall away at the neck to show his lace shirt-front.

Rigaud, who professed to be a follower of Van Dyck, was an able and industrious portrait painter, who, although he produced from thirty to forty portraits a year, would have no assistants, but painted all the accessories himself during the sixty-two years of his career. During that time he painted five kings and all the French princes, as well as most of the distinguished men of his time.

No. 605. MASTER PETERS
By Sir Thomas Lawrence

605

SIR THOMAS LAWRENCE
English Painter, 1769-1830

PORTRAIT OF MASTER PETERS.

The brown eyes of the fresh-faced English lad look directly at the spectator, his cheeks aglow with health; a white collar shows above his dark coat, with a voluminous ribbon bow in front; his brown hair falls carelessly over his forehead. Lawrence loved to paint children and was successful in catching the questioning wonder and innocence of their young lives, as this canvas ably testifies.

GEORGE HENRY HARLOW
English Painter, 1787-1819

PORTRAIT OF LADY CAMDEN.

This example of the talented portraitist, for a time assistant of Sir Thomas Lawrence, with whom he later quarrelled, shows the beautiful young woman at half length, dressed in a rose-colored gown, with a scarf floating behind her; her brown hair is dressed high in a loose coil and is interwoven with a white ribbon. A glimpse of the sea at sunset forms the background.

ANTONIO CANALE (CALLED CANALETTO)
Italian Painter, 1697-1768

GRAND CANAL, VENICE.

This long curving stretch of the Grand Canal shows the white marble façade of a church at the right, and a dome and Greek portico of another at the left. In the foreground a number of gondolas with figures are seen passing, while a blue sky arches overhead. Canaletto occupied himself in producing views of Venice exclusively, which for their truth and their extraordinary effect and perspective met with immense success and are still highly esteemed. The figures in his pictures were invariably added by Tiepolo.

PORTRAIT OF A LADY.

A young woman is seen at half length, wearing an Empire dress of white, low in the neck, with a brooch in the corsage. Across the right shoulder falls a yellow scarf trimmed with fringe. Her brown hair is arranged in a braid across the top of her head, from which short curls escape about her brows. A low-toned landscape fills the background.

At thirty years of age, Hoppner was court painter to the Prince of Wales, and devoting himself to portraits, soon became the rival of Lawrence. He exhibited regularly at the Royal Academy where, until 1797, the rule was in vogue that none but royalties could be designated by name, others being simply entitled "Portrait of a Lady" or "Portrait of a Gentleman," making identification difficult. He was most successful in his portraits of ladies and children.

575 / JEAN BAPTISTE PATER

French Painter, 1695-1736

FÊTE CHAMPÊTRE.

The scene shows a delightful fête galante, taking place in a park at midsummer, in which a youth and maid are going through the steps of a dance, with groups of gaily dressed figures gathered around them. At the left two musicians are seen, and beyond rise trees against a summer sky. Pater was a pupil of Watteau, whom he followed in the choice of his subjects also, and working under the eye of his master, he, better than other followers, caught the spirit of his master's inspiration.

SIR JOSHUA REYNOLDS

English Painter, 1723-1792

PORTRAIT OF THE DUCHESS OF GLOUCESTER.

This portrait of a handsome woman shows the seated figure at half length, the head raised with eyes directed upward. She wears a brown robe crossing in front over a white chemisette and held at the waist by a gray sash. Her elbow rests on a table and her right hand supports her head. A mass of brown hair is arranged in a braid crossing the top of her head and another braid falls down her left shoulder.

The subject was the illegitimate daughter of Sir Edward Walpole, and was born in 1736. She was twice married, first to Lord Waldegrave at 23, and second to Prince William Henry, Duke of Gloucester, brother of George III, when 30 years of age. She died in 1807, and was buried in Saint George's Chapel, Windsor. She was said to have been, originally, a milliner's apprentice, at Durham. Her uncle, Horace Walpole, said of her: "She was very pious, charitable, sincere, frank and friendly, but warm and resentful. Her sense strong, her wit ready and very pointed."

BONIFAZIO VERONESE

Italian Painter, Died 1540

THE ADORATION OF THE MAGI.

The Mother, holding the infant Christ on her lap, is seen at the right under a rude shelter, with Joseph in the shadowy background; before them kneel two of the Wise Men, richly robed, attended by a colored servant, and several other figures. In the blue sky above, a single star forms a circle of light, its rays falling on the infant form below. Bonifazio was a follower, if not a pupil of Palma Vecchio, and was also much influenced by Giorgione and Titian, and several of his works are so remarkable for their beauty of color that they long passed under the names of those artists.

Canvas.

Height, 36 inches; width, 51 inches.

HENRY WYATT

English Painter, 1794-1840

PORTRAIT OF A LADY.

Seated in a garden chair, a young woman is seen at half length, looking directly at the spectator. She wears a blue velvet coat trimmed with fur, which falls from her shoulders, showing a white dress with a ruff about the neck, beneath which is a blue ribbon ending in a bow at the front. Above her dark hair is a wide-brimmed hat of blue velvet trimmed with yellow ribbon and white plumes. Wyatt worked as an assistant in the studio of Sir Thomas Lawrence for a number of years, going later to Birmingham, where he opened a studio for himself and won success as a portrait painter. During the latter part of his life, he exhibited a large number of his portraits at the Royal Academy exhibition.

JEAN BAPTISTE HUET

A PASTORAL.

This piquant scene of love and beauty shows a youth and maid seated in a garden, whose wall rises at the right, crowned by an urn; they are engaged in love-making in a world where all is well. Beyond the garden are seen the red roofs of a villa on a hillside, forming a pleasing background. Decorative art came naturally to Huet, and following in the footsteps of Watteau and Boucher, he attained celebrity as a painter of rustic scenes and Fêtes Galantes, and was attached to the Royal Manufactures of Tapestry of Gobelins and Beauvais. He was appointed court painter in 1794.

PORTRAIT OF LADY WILLIAM ELLIOTT.

Seated beside a table, on which she rests her left arm, the lady is seen at three-quarters length. She wears a blue gown open at the neck, having white ruffles about the corsage and at the elbows. A red scarf falls from her shoulders and rests on her lap, and in her hands she holds a cluster of flowers.

A contemporary of Lely and Kneller, Riley is an artist but little known today, many of his best works being ascribed to Lely, though Walpole regarded him as one of the best English painters. He was patronized by Charles II and his court, also by James II, and was appointed court painter to William and Mary.

SIR HENRY RAEBURN
Scotch Painter, 1756-1823

PORTRAIT OF JAMES HAIG.

The handsome youth wears a dark blue coat, above which appear a buff waistcoat and white stock, while a mass of waving dark hair falls over his left temple. The subject, who is said to have been eighteen years of age when this portrait was painted, later became First Judge of the Madras Civil Service. It was painted in 1812, the year that Raeburn was elected President of the Scottish Society of Artists, at which time he was fifty-six years of age, and in the fullness of his powers.

SIR WILLIAM BEECHEY
English Painter, 1753-1839

PORTRAIT OF MISS MELVILLE.

The canvas shows a young woman in a white dress open at the neck, the corsage bordered with a frill of white lace, with a blue sash about the waist. Her powdered hair, bound with a fillet of white ribbon, falls in curls about her ears. In her lap she holds an open book. A pleasing landscape forms the background.

Beechey, who was court painter to George III, was a popular and prolific portrait painter, and during the sixty-four years of his career exhibited no less than 362 portraits at the Royal Academy. His portraits in their day were admired for their truth to nature and their freshness of color, which they still retain.
